Question 0.1. Suppose you are given an airline schedule comprising of a list of $n$ flights, where each flight has a scheduled arrival and departure time from a given source city to a given destination city. The goal is to decide if you can support the schedule with $k$ aircrafts.

Model this decision problem as a circulation problem and provide a polynomial time algorithm for it, given that you can solve circulation problems in polynomial time.